

Insurance Subrogation

McLaughlin & Stern, LLP evaluates and prosecutes a wide variety of property insurance subrogation claims throughout the United States and internationally for insurers, reinsurers, excess carriers, municipalities and corporations with large self-insured retentions.

Nelson E. Canter, Esq., who chairs our Insurance Subrogation Group, has handled thousands of property subrogation claims and coordinated hundreds of complex origin and cause investigations throughout the country and internationally. Our Insurance Subrogation Group handles boiler and machinery losses, electrical failures, chemical plant fires, dust explosions, turbine and energy failures, building collapse and construction defect claims, product liability, fire suppression system failures, fire spread and sprinkler malfunctions, water damage claims, inland marine and transportation losses, business interruption, environmental claims, construction, crane and heavy equipment failures, equine losses and other complex property damage losses throughout the United States.

Our trusted network of local counsel and experts throughout the country coupled with our Insurance Subrogation Group's unique expertise and extensive experience sets us apart from our competitors, to achieve consistently favorable recoveries for each of our clients.

Please contact Mr. Canter at ncanter@mclaughlinstern.com for more information or for any property subrogation assignments.