Real Estate

The firm is experienced in real estate development transactions, ranging from the acquisition and financing of the land, to the construction work and funding required to implement the project, and finally to the leasing, operation and permanent financing of the development. The firm's recent work has included structuring an equity workout of a non-income producing over-leveraged development property in New York City, concluding a 17-year sales project of excess property for a corporate client, closing on a client's purchase and financing of one of New York City's most expensive condominium units and facilitating the merger of one of New York City's highest profile retail brokerage firms.

The strength of the firm's real estate practice lies in its capability and capacity to deal with every element of the process in a professional and expeditious manner. The real estate department brings a "value added" component to every client and every transaction.
